TO 1358 FEET WITHOUT OIL

DRILLING HALTS ON WELL NO. 2 AT QUITMAN.

A MEETING TUESDAY

Stockholders To Decide Whether To Drill Deeper, Start New Well Or Give Up.

A meeting of the shareholders of the Quitman Gas and Oil Company will be held at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the site of well No. 2 on the Joe Carden farm, nine miles west and a half mile north of Maryville, according to Van Goslee, president of the company's board of directors.

The meeting has been called to determine whether the contractor for the drilling, George Rose of Breckenridge, Mo., should resume drilling on well No. 2, start a new well or discontinue his activities.

Mr. Rose reached a depth of 1,358 feet Wednesday night, which completed his part of the contract with the Oil Company, he having agreed to drill to a 1350-foot depth.

Today Mr. Rose was at the location, inspecting the machinery and making any necessary repairs. The outfit has been idle since the 1,358-foot depth was reached.

Another layer of sand was struck at a depth of 1332 feet, which proved to be about five feet through. It gave a good showing of oil, better than the showing at the 1301 foot depth. The sand also gave a flow of salty water, which poured into the pipes up to a 200-foot level. When the sand was struck at 1301 feet, about 750 feet of water rose in the pipe.

When drilling was halted at 1358 feet the 6-inch bit was in dark shale, which was reported as easy to drill through. The limestone struck at 1306 feet was only a shallow stratum.

Raymond Rose, son of George Rose, said the indication of oil at 1332 feet was the best showing found in this well or in well No. 1.

Township Collector Gives English Bond

Emmett Bartram, chosen at last fall's election of Polk township, today filed a bond of $150,000 with the county clerk, subject to the approval of the county court.

The Employers' Liability Assurance Corporation, Ltd., of London, with a United States branch office at Boston, was the surety on the bond.

Mrs. Maud Hunt of Orrsburg was admitted to the St. Francis Hospital today. She is suffering with a poisoning.

SCHOOL VOTE IS BLOCKED

SKIDMORE OBJECTORS GRANTED A TEMPORARY INJUNCTION.

HEARING ON JUNE 10

Court to Rule Then on Performance of Writ Restraining Transfer of Land to Graham District.

Granting a temporary injunction to six property owners of the Skidmore consolidated school district, Judge John M. Dawson late yesterday halted the proposed election to have been held tomorrow for a vote upon a $75,000 bond issue for a new school building.

The petitioners were expected to file a $1,000 bond today with W. R. Tilson, circuit clerk, the court fixing that amount.

A hearing will be held June 10 in circuit court at which time Judge Dawson will decide whether the temporary injunction to prevent the Liberty district and east of Skidmore from being taken from the Skidmore district and transferred to the Graham district, No. 136, shall be made permanent.

Today the "status quo" of school matters at Skidmore has been restored with the granting of the temporary writ. Yesterday's decision nullifies, at least temporarily, the voting out of the Skidmore district of some 1,600 acres of land and the proposal to vote $75,000 bonds for new school building and equipment at Skidmore.

Charge Election Illegal.

The petitioners for the injunction, who were represented by Attorney Fred Harvey of Maryville and Judge A. M. Tibbells of Mound City, alleged that the members of the Skidmore school board and others unlawfully had caused a school election to be held April 5 to vote out the Liberty district so that fifty qualified voters would be disfranchised from voting on a bond issue for a new building. The election, scheduled for tomorrow, would have been the sixth to have been held in Skidmore for this purpose.

The petitioners, Vernon B. Ward, J. F. Kellogg, William Taylor, Fred M. Barrett, John R. Barrett and Elmer Owens, claimed in their petition for the writ that sufficient notice had not been posted for the May 28 election; that the decision of the board of arbitration which decided that the land in question should be transferred to Graham was illegal; and that the election held at Graham to vote upon the acceptance of the land voted out of the Skidmore district was not held according to law.

Parties named as defendants by the petitioners are members and clerks of the Skidmore school board, the judges of the special election set for tomorrow, the members of the Graham school board and clerk, the county superintendent of schools, members of the board of arbitrators, and the county clerk.

A $1,000 bond, filed by Fred Harvey, attorney, this afternoon, and approved by W. R. Tilson, circuit clerk, to insure all costs and damages for the hearing to decide whether the temporary writ should be made permanent, was signed as follows:

Vernon B. Ward, J. F. Kellogg, William Taylor, Fred M. Barrett, John R. Barrett and Elmer Owens as principals and the following as sureties, Floyd R. Barrett, Ed Hughes, J. D. Montgomery, H. L. Albright, George Kuntzman, W. R. Linville, Aaron Linville, George W. Collins, F. W. Collins, Ralph H. Wright, David Wright, Robert W. Barrett and George P. McDaniels.

Randall Wilson of Bethany represented the defendants yesterday in circuit court.

In the attachment suit of Raymond Shroyer against Harvey R. Lazenby, Mrs. Ed Wiley, garnishee, the defendant defaulted and judgment was ordered by the court in favor of the plaintiff for $1,320.86 at 6 per cent interest and for $20.50 in suit on foreign judgment. The garnishee filed answer stating she had $57.38 belonging to the defendant, which had been turned over to the sheriff, and she was discharged.

The court approved of the report of the receiver in the reform and mortgage foreclosure case of Eva L. Bartles, et al against Ray Bartles, after no exceptions or objections had been made. Motions for application of disposition of the funds in the hands of the receiver were filed by the Gillam-Jackson Loan & Trust Company, Beuna Bartles, Ray Bartles, Eva L. Bartles and Ozella C. Bartles.

BIG AQUEDUCT IS DYNAMITED

ATTEMPT MADE TO CUT LOS ANGELES' WATER SUPPLY.

IS SECOND ATTEMPT

Blast Follows Controversy Between Los Angeles and Owen Valley Residents.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 27.—A section of the Los Angeles aqueduct, 150 miles north of this city, was dynamited early today, according to reports here.

The dynamiting marked the second attempt in recent months to destroy the aqueduct, following a controversy between the city of Los Angeles and residents of Owen valley over the right of the city to erect a dam in the valley.

The huge steel syphon was torn and twisted and thrown out of line for 300 feet. Before discharging the blast, the gang of men thought to be responsible tore out all telephone wires and smashed the interstate telephone wires on the California-Nevada line. It was said this constituted a federal offense.

A. H. Cooper's Pupil to Return Tomorrow

C. L. Clayton, a Product of Nodaway County, Will Return to Oakland City, Ind., College.

The fame of vitalized agriculture, product of Nodaway county, will be spread further when C. L. Clayton, instructor of agriculture in Oakland City College, at Oakland City, Ind., returns to his home tomorrow after a week spent at the State Teachers College here in study under Bert Cooper, originator of the plan.

Mr. Clayton is the second faculty member to come here from the Indiana college, which is introducing vitalized agriculture in that state. Last year W. B. Anderson, head of the agriculture department of the Oakland City College, spent a week here with Mr. Cooper. In addition to the two faculty members, Carl Fisher, a student, was sent here to take the entire course. He will return and teach the subject at Oakland City. Fisher's home is in Hazelton, Ind.

In the few years since the vitalized agriculture plan of teaching was developed here by Mr. Cooper, it has spread to Nebraska, Utah, South Dakota and Texas, where it is being used extensively, and it is being used to some extent in Illionis, Colorado and Oklahome.

In the Indiana college the study outline written by Mr. Cooper and E. A. Glenn will be used. Mr. Clayton also is taking back with him several of the notebooks made by pupils in Nodaway county schools in which the plan is used.

"I am very much pleased," Mr. Clayton said. "I am glad I came out here. I have received a lot of suggestions and have learned things we hadn't thought of, because the plan is so much newer with us."

Oakland City College, he said, has an enrollment at present of about 500 students, most of them in teacher training.

Livestock in Flood District Abandoned

Louisiana Relief Workers Concentrate On Saving Of Families Who Refused To Leave.

New Orleans, May 27.—Efforts to save livestock and property in lower portions of Pointe Coupee parish were abandoned by rescue workers today as flood waters of the Atchafalaya river, already covering 200 square miles, continued their relentless advance.

All relief facilities were concentrated on a final canvass of the parish for farmers and their families many of whom have refused to leave their homes, persistently clinging to the hope that some miracle would save them from the flood.

Railroads, highways and all available boats were put to use for the exodus of stragglers in the flooded farm lands.

The Mississippi river, meanwhile had dropped another .2 of a foot at New Orleans and stood the lowest it has been since early in April.

SEE A MOTOR WAR BY FORD

NEW CAR DESIGNED TO OPPOSE GENERAL MOTORS.

FIGHT FOR SUPREMACY

One Car to Every Five Persons in U. S.; 2,700,000 U. S. Families Own Two Cars.

New York, May 27.—The new model Ford, it was reported without confirmation in Wall Street today, will resemble in appearance the Lincoln automobile.

Washington, May 27.—While owners of 20,000,000 automobiles in the United States are puzzling today over the new "mystery" Ford car, capitalists and industrial leaders see in the launching of the machine the latest strategy in the battle for supremacy between the two giants of the motor world—Henry Ford and General Motors Corporation.

General Motors is challenging the supremacy long held by Ford, according to figures of the automotive industry.

Ford's new car, it is believed, is designed to meet the competition of the popular type car of General Motors—the Chevrolet—whose sales have been mounting. The Detroit man said he had long planned a new model but it was believed brought forward at this time to meet his leading competitors.

The battle for supremacy brings attention to the vast extent of the automotive industry in the United States. There is now one car to every five persons. There are 2,700,000 families in the United States owning two cars.

Farmers own 4,500,000 cars.

Enough gasoline to float a fleet of battleships was used last year, more than 8,500,000,000 gallons.

Landor McJimsey Dies at Rushville, Ind.

Body Will Be Brought Here for Burial Son of Editor E. E. E. McJimsey.

A message was received last night by relatives in Maryville announcing the death of Landor McJimsey, which occurred at 6 o'clock yesterday evening at a hospital in Rushville, Ind. Reed McJimsey of Maryville left Wednesday night for Rushville and reached his brother's beside a few hours before his death.

The body will be brought to Maryville for burial, arriving here Monday. Arrangements for the funeral have not been completed.

Mr. McJimsey was about 38 years old and was born and reared in Maryville. He was the oldest son of E. E. E. McJimsey of Springfield, Mo., and the late Mrs. Ella B. McJimsey of Maryville. He left Maryville fifteen years ago. Another brother, Lowell McJimsey of Chicago, also survives.

Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Sawyers and Mrs. Rachel A. Scott of Maryville and the Rev. and Mrs. Henry A. Sawyers of St. Joseph are uncles and aunts of Mr. McJimsey. Ross, Walter and Emnett Scott, Mrs. Ella Lyle and Mrs. Karl Zimmerman of this city are cousins.

Many people will be sorry—some for one reason and some for another—for the New York bookkeeper who stole $1,039 and then gave it back because he "couldn't spend it."

BRITISH GIVE REDS NOTICE

RUSSIA IS TOLD FORMALLY OF DIPLOMATIC BREAK.

'DOES NOT MEAN WAR'

Friendly Trade Relations Can Continue, Premier Baldwin Assures Meeting Today.

London, May 27.—Great Britain today formally notified the Russian charge d'affairs of her intention to break off diplomatic relations with Moscow.

The British note speaking the intention of His Majesty's government was delivered today and will be made public tomorrow.

The note was prepared yesterday before midnight with a vote of confidence, 357 to 111, in the government policy with respect to Russia.

With delivery of the note, Britain and Russia, two of the greatest countries in the world cease friendly relationship.

Britain charged Moscow with working, in and out of the British Isles, for the overthrow of the established government. It was said the note demanded departure of the Soviet diplomatic and trade delegations and added that the British diplomatic mission to Moscow would be overthrown.

Premier Baldwin, addressing a meeting today, assured the audience that "rupture of diplomatic relations does not in any way mean or imply war against Russia."

"It means that we do not intend to have any further political dealings with Moscow but we are wholly in favor of pursuit of legitimate trade between the two countries," the premier said.

The motion in the house was in the following terms:

"This house, while appreciating the long forbearance of his majesty's government and their many efforts to maintain friendly diplomatic relations with the soviet republics in the face of acute provocation, applauds their decision to withdraw diplomatic privileges which have been so gravely abused, while at the same time putting no obstacles in the way of legitimate trading relations with Russia."

Urged a Trial for Russia.

J. R. Clynes, putting the labor case before the house, contended that Russia should not be condemned unheard and that the policy the government was pursuing would deprive Great Britain of valuable trade, but would not abate Russian propaganda. On the contrary, he said, it would be a first class advertisement for communism.

Clynes was answered by Sir Austen Chamberlain.

"The government," the foreign minister declared, "has striven to the utmost to maintain good relations with Russia until they became a hollow sham, and has pushed its forbearance to a point where its further pursuit would be mere weakness."

Ninety Days to Serve, Convict Escapes Farm

Jefferson City, May 27.—Oscar Olsen, serving a sentence of ten years at the prison farm, escaped last night, only three months from the time his sentence would have expired under the honor system, it was reported to authorities today.

Parole of Raymond Graves Is Revoked

Miss Virginia Robinson will come tomorrow from Kansas City to spend the week-end and Decoration Day with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Robinson.

LAST BANDIT STILL SOUGHT

ONE OF ST. JOSEPH QUARTET ELUDES OFFICERS.

PURSUIT IS VIGOROUS

By Air, Land And Water, Bank Robbers Are Hunted And Three Are Caught.—St. Joseph Man Shot.

St. Joseph, Mo., May 27.—Nearly every mode of transportation was used in search for bandits who yesterday robbed the Farmers State Bank here of $5,000. The search was being continued today for the final member of the gang, who is in possession of the money.

Three of the four bandits were captured after pursuit by airplane, motor cars and afoot. Boats were used along the Missouri in the search.

One bandit was believed wounded. It was reported he had been killed, but this report was proved false.

One bandit, L. M. Tiffany, was found hiding in a culvert. Lynn Swopes was found in a wheat field, and Ernest Mickey, negro, was captured in Kansas City on an interurban car. All have confessed, according to police.

A Volunteer Injured.

A St. Joseph baker, Charles Roland Dycus, was seriously wounded in a close-up gun fight on the interurban right-of-way in Faucett, near where two of the robbers later were captured.

Dycus and O. L. Hook, whose places of business are near the bank, armed themselves, filled the gas tank of a low-hung racing motor, and less than 10 minutes after the hold-up were pursuing the stolen Paige touring car in which the bandits escaped.

Less than a quarter of a mile east of Faucett they came upon the deserted bandit's car parked by the roadside. Dycus got out to inspect it and Hook drove on into Faucett to notify the police here.

Discovering that the the gas supply of the Paige had been exhausted, Dycus walked on into Faucett and joined his partner, who stood on the interurban tracks conversing with a man in a nearby car.

"We had stood there half an hour waiting for the police to come," said Hook, "when we saw two white men and a negro coming down the tracks toward us. All three stopped when within 15 feet of us and the negro asked if we had seen a large touring car in the vicinity.

Possemen Wounded.

"Dycus replied, 'No, but we see you, you damn' robbers'; and the battle began. I drew my .32 and my partner started firing with a shotgun. Dycus went down in the first exchange of shots, but continued firing from the ground.

"One of the bandits dropped like he was hit but got up and ran north and the other two headed for the timber south of town. We carried Dycus over on the porch of a store and called the ambulance."

Dycus, who is only 22, lay for an hour on the porch of the store, bleeding profusely from a severe wound.

At last an ambulance came and he was taken to Missouri Methodist hospital where an x-ray revealed that the pistol shot had fractured a bone in his leg.

Much Work Done at Oak Hill Cemetery for Memorial Day

Oak Hill Cemetery, north of Maryville, property of the city today presented the most attractive appearance of the year, city employes having completed their work of getting the grounds in shape for Memorial Day.

The cemetery is perhaps prettier than it any other time in its history. All the graves have been mowed by the city, and many relatives were at the cemetery today decorating with flowers and ferns. With the west addition to the cemetery, the entire grounds cover thirty-three acres. For the last three days, six men have put in full time under the direction of Mayor W. O. Garrett.

The vacant ground to the west of the platted addition was put in grass last fall and was being mowed and rolled today. A gravel road, laid last year, today was in excellent shape. It winds in and out around the cemetery. Mayor Garrett said that many trees had been planted this spring and much care had been given to a hedge on the west.

Another city property, the portion of a block occupied by the city water tank on Mulberry, has been improved this spring, Mr. Garrett said, until the lawn is now in shape to be mowed. A scheme to beautify the grounds has been carried out, with the planting of trees and flowers. The land drains well, sloping gradually upward from the road to the tower.

"All in all," said Mr. Garrett, Maryville now looks the best it ever has. Citizens seem to have taken pride this year in keeping up their lawns, terraces and parkways.

"No great improvements have been made, but it is the little things that count."

Riding around the city with the Mayor, one admitted without much persuasion that the lawns are looking greener and are better kept than for many years past.

Mayor Garrett said that considerable work has been done at the Oak Hill cemetery to place it in readiness for Memorial Sunday and Memorial Day. "There are a great many graves that will be decorated Monday and many people will visit the cemetery in the next three days," Mayor Garrett said.

In a driving rainstorm an Overland Whippet Sedan again demonstrated its economy, road stability and stamina, making a record run from Philadelphia to Pittsburgh and return, a distance of 620 miles, in less than one day, averaging 29½ miles per gallon.

Over mountain roads, down steep grades with 4-wheel brakes functioning perfectly, despite the slippery, rain-swept highways, the Whippet maintained a high rate of speed throughout the entire trip.

If you want economy, performance and plenty of interior room, by all means see the Whippet.

What Nodaway County Churches Are Doing

NOT GUILTY, BUT DON'T DO IT AGAIN

Comment on the Uniform International Sunday School Lesson for May 29, 1927.
Read Acts 5.

Wm. Southern, Jr.

There never has been a successful attempt to establish a religion by force, nor to suppress religion by force.

Yet such attempts have been frequent and, curiously enough, have always resulted in more extensive religious thinking. Religion has always thrived on opposition and when attempts at suppression were being made.

Not only has religion thrived, but the persecution of religion has been the means of opening up new countries and new nations. Religious persecution brought the stern, hardy, earnest New England Puritans to this country, religion framed our constitution following our declaration of Independence. Religion brought our victories after bringing our wars.

In times of peace and great material prosperity the line of church membership falls to the lowest point, while in times of hardship and hard times the people seem to turn to religion and to the churches.

I have wondered what would have happened to the Christian religion had the Jewish rulers at Jerusalem let it alone. What would have been the result if Ananias, the high priest, and the Jewish council had paid no attention to the disciples and had followed the advice of Gamaliel.

Peter and John seem to have been the leaders in the work. They not only went about preaching a risen Lord, but freely accused the Jews of murder. This got under the hide of the high priest, Ananias, who could not forget the part he had played in the crucifixion and would wake at night as from bad dreams and see the cross and the man he had done to death.

Peter and John were arrested after the healing of the lame man at the Gate Beautiful and were lectured and released. They continued preaching and healing.

Right at this point two incidents which have always appealed to our imagination occurred. The first was the attempt of Ananias, not the high priest, but a member of the Christian cult, to beat his taxes. He brought goods and declared it was all he had and gave it to the church. Peter became the accuser and Ananias died, a liar. I always did hate a liar. On the walls of one of the many chapels in St. Peters at Rome, is a picture portraying this incident, St. Peter pointing his finger at the cringing Ananias.

The other incident, mentioned only in a paragraph, is that Joses, known ever afterward in sacred history as Barnabas, sold his farms in Cyprus, gave the proceeds to Christianity and joined the Christians. Barnabas became one of the very strongest of the Christian preachers. There is in existence a "Gospel of Barnabas." It was not included in the canon of the New Testament, but is a very interesting document. I do not know why it was excluded, probably because there was doubt of its authenticity.

Once again were Peter and John hailed before the high council of the Jews. Sternly they were told to quit accusing the Jews of the murder of Jesus. They were thrown in jail and the next morning the cells were vacant and they were found preaching as usual. The council was ready for extreme action when Gamaliel, one of the wisest members of the council and a teacher of the law, advised against force. If these teachings be from God he argued, you can not stop them, if not they will fail of themselves.

It was then that the Scotch verdict was rendered "Not guilty, but don't do it again," and the disciples were again released.

Gamaliel, who was the teacher of Paul, stands for wisdom to this day. President Harding's parents named their son Gamaliel.

The advice Gamaliel gave to the high council of the Jews nearly two thousand years ago would save a lot of trouble if it were followed by us in our dealings with religion today.

A few weeks ago I listened to a debate in the Missouri legislature on a bill which would forbid the teaching of evolution in our schools. I listened for some member to give the advice Gamaliel gave to the Jews, but none did. It seems to me that we may very well leave such questions to the arbitrament of time. If they be of God they will prevail, if not they will fail.

We have long ago discovered that we can not make men good by law. In olden times countries were declared Christian by the simple act of the rulers. Church and state were the same. The protest of the Christian church in the United States was a separation of church and state. To that theory we stand today. It is unfortunate that there is so much religious intolerance remaining. In New York an organization is being formed headed by Jews, Catholic and Protestant, distinguished men from each. Their objective is to do away with religious and race intolerance in this nation.

In my newspaper work I lay down one principle in dealing with these matters. As long as a church, any church, contents itself with preaching its own peculiar doctrines, no matter what they are, as long as it does not interfere as an organization in politics and business, I have no quarrel with it.

Whenever a church, any church, attempts, as a church, to dominate business, or politics, I am ready to fight that organization.

I claim the right to worship God according to my own ways of thinking and I am willing to grant others the same privilege.

If all Christians held to this simple idea there would be no church quarrels such as have disgraced and weakened our organizations in so many places. I believe it will all result as did the persecution of the apostles, in a greater, finer and more joyous and more liveable Christianity.

PETER UNDAUNTED BY PERSECUTION.

Acts 5: 27-35; 38-42.

Acts 5: 27. And when they had brought them, they set them before the council. And the high priest asked them

28. saying, We strictly charged you not to teach in this name: and behold ye have filled Jerusalem with your teachings and intend to bring this man's blood upon us.

29. But Peter and the apostles answered and said, We must obey God rather than men.

30. The God of our fathers raised up Jesus, whom ye slew, hanging him on a tree.

31. Him did God exalt with his right hand to be a Prince and a Saviour, to give repentance to Israel, and remission of sins.

32. And we are witnesses to these things; and so is the Holy Spirit, whom God hath given to them that obey him.

33. But they, when they heard this, were cut to the heart, and were minded to slay them.

34. But there stood up one in the council, a Parisee, named Gamaliel, a doctor of the law, had in honor of all the people, and commanded to put the men forth a little while.

35. And he said unto them, Ye men of Israel, take heed to yourselves as touching these men, what ye are about to do.

38. And now I say unto you, Refrain from these men, and let them alone; for if this work be of men, it will be overthrown;

39. but if it be of God, ye will not be able to overthrow them; lest haply ye be found even to be fighting against God.

40. And to him they agreed; and when they had called the apostles unto them, they beat them and charged them not to speak in the name of Jesus, and let them go.

41. They therefore departed from the presence of the council, rejoicing that they were counted worthy to suffer dishonor for the Name.

42. And every day, in the temple and at home, they ceased not to teach and to preach Jesus as the Christ.

Presbyterian Young People Have Outing

Twenty-one young people of the Presbyterian Christian Endeavor had an outdoor party yesterday. They met at the church and drove out to a country school yard three miles out, built a cheery camp fire, roasted wieners and marshmallows, had buns and cookies and all-day suckers—altogether a glorious feast.

Everybody enjoyed it and called for more, but after all had had their just share there wasn't a scrap of anything left.

At the conclusion of the feast, games were played; bull-in-the-pasture, hide-and-go-seek—with lots of fine places for concealment—tennis and others.

Games ended, it was decided to wind up the evening by driving back and going to the movies as guests of the "Missouri Theater, at the picture "Captain Salvation."

Before the party disbanded, it was voted to have another such evening soon.

DRAMATIC EVENTS IN BIBLE HISTORY : : By Harlowe R. Hoyt and Walter Scott

The Persecution of the Apostles

Since the apostles continued to preach the message of Jesus, the priests and Sadducees caused their arrest. But an angel opened the prison door by night and bade them continue their labors.
Early that morning, when the Sanhedrin met to question the apostles, they learned that the prison was vacant, and that the little band was preaching in the Temple porch.
Again the Sanhedrin summoned the apostles and forbade them to preach. "The God of our fathers raised up Jesus, whom ye slew," Peter declared. "We are witnesses of these things." The angry Sanhedrin would have executed the prisoners, but Gamaliel, a Pharisee, interposed. "If this be the work of men, it will be overthrown," said he. "But if it is of God, ye cannot overthrow it." So the apostles continued their ministry.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

BILLY WELLS, NYDA LOMAX, and WINNIE SHELTON, employes of the big Curtis department store, are taken into their employer's home as wards for one year because T. Q. CURTIS believes they have worthy ambitions which he wants to further.

Billy, who desires to become a concert violinist, is the only one that is sincerely ambitious. The others lie to enjoy T. Q.'s generosity. The girls accidentally learn that he intends adopting one of them when the year is up. A battle ensues for his affections and Billy is unwillingly drawn into it. This, coupled with her infatuation for DAL ROMAINE, nephew of MRS. MEADOWS, the hostess, causes her to lose interest in her violin.

In spite of her infatuation, she tenderly remembers CLAY CURTIS, son of her benefactor, who has disinherited himself and is living with the Wells family in the poor part of town, working in a factory by day and writing music at night. She loses interest in her music, and finally she has a breakdown.

The night before they leave Billy secretly meets Romaine in the summer-house at midnight. He suavely puts her doubts at rest. Returning to the house, Billy sees Eddie Banning, Nyda's Chauffeur-sweetheart of department store days, stealing from Nyda's window and leaving by the fire-escape. When Billy rushes to Nyda's room to see if any harm has befallen the girl, Nyda is furious at her and tells her she is lying when she says a man was in her room. Billy goes to her own room and stumbles over Mrs. Meadows, who is peeping through the keyhole of Nyda's door. During the month that Billy and Constance spend at the resort, Billy hopes she has banished Romaine from her heart.

CHAPTER 41

Billy and Constance returned to Colfax on a train arriving at five o'clock and the two girls parted affectionately at the station, Constance driving away in the Bradley sedan with her mother, and T. Q. taking charge of Billy and her luggage in the Curtis limousine.

"Good girl!" It was hard to recognize the brusque old millionaire in the fatherly, beaming man who gathered the sun-burned, sturdy little girl's hands in his when the car was picking its sedate way through the downtown section. "You're looking great, child. Feel up to a little party tonight?"

"I never felt better in my life," she laughed, laying one of his hands against her cheek. "And I've led such a quiet life that I'm spoiled for a good party. What's the program?"

"Dinner for twelve at the house, then the young people want to whisk away to the Country Club. The big Saturday night dance, you know. But you musn't overdo, Billikin."

Mrs. Meadows seemed delighted to have her back again, and even Nyda and Winnie were faintly friendly, when they came to her room before dinner.

"I haven't a thing to wear," Billy mourned, looking at the sleek newness of their dresses with envious eyes.

"That dress what came from that Madame Duboys, or whatever you calls her, would be nice for tonight," Viola, the colored maid, contributed eagerly. "My, Miss Billy, that dress is a dream—a dream, what I mean." She abandoned her work of unpacking Billy's wardrobe trunk and hurried to the clothes closet. "Now, Miss Nyda, and Miss Winnie, I asks you—ain't that dress a dream?"

Billy's profound amazement passed unnoticed, for Nyda and Winnie were wholly engrossed with the dress which Viola had so proudly displayed. She had ordered no dress from Madame Dubois.

"It's stunning, Billy," Winnie cried, her voice a little shrill with envy. "But you'd better try it on. It may have to be altered."

Billy took the dress into her own hands almost reverently. It was a beauty—and those particular shades of yellow and green had always filled her with covetous delight.

"Got a label on the neck!" Viola crowed. "Is say, 'Madame Dubois, Exclusive Models—The Daffodil.' That's what you are now, Miss Billy, a daffodil. An' that name ain't no lie, neither, is it, Miss Winnie?"

"It's lively," Winnie conceded. "I don't know why she didn't show it to me. Goodness knows I've spent more at her old shop than you have, and she knew I was looking for a dress just on that order."

When Nyda and Winnie had gone to their rooms to add last-minute touches to make up, Viola drew a tiny envelope from her apron pocket and handed it over, with a rich chuckle.

"This-here note was pinned on the dress when it come, Miss Billy.

Inside the small envelope was a card, covered with the minute printing which was Dal Romaine's entirely distinctive handwriting:

"This is your dress, Mignon. It was created especially for you. And it's from me to you, with love. Dal."

The "spell" rushed back upon her, recaptured her, shook every nerve in her exquisitely clad little body. She understood. This was his answer to her charge, her bitter, unjust charge, only half uttered but understood by him, that he had "lured" her into Madame Dubois' shop and caused her to spend more money than she could afford, so that he might profit at her expense. Viola was not looking, and Billy laid the card against her lips, in a passion of reawakened love.

She was bitterly disappointed that Dal Romaine was not among the dinner guests whom T. Q. had invited to do her honor on her home-coming. But she laughed and talked gaily of her experiences at the big resort hotel. Constance, who had known for days of the prospective dinner party, was among the guests, and before her Billy could not bear to be less than gay and charming. For she knew that Constance had guessed the secret of her infatuation for Dal Romaine.

The party included Ralph Truman, Bruce Kruger, Gil Warburton, son of Presley Warburton; Carl Boswell, in whom Nyda seemed to be interested, and Peter Conroy, who, like Carl, did not "quite belong" to the Kruger-Bradley-Truman set, but who had been invited because Winnie so evidently liked him; and, besides the three girls of the house, Constance Bradley and Kathleen Kruger, a vivacious little red-headed flapper, who had recently announced her engagement to Gil Warburton. At ten o'clock the young people piled into cars which hurried them away to the Country Club.

Billy was dancing with Ralph Truman, who had treated her all evening as if nothing unpleasant had ever occured to mar their friendship, when she was startled by an explosive "Damn"! from the lips which had just been smiling at her with comradely affection.

"What's the matter?" she demanded, as his arm tightened about her.

Then she looked toward the door of the club ballroom and saw the cause of his annoyance. Dal Romaine stood there, a slight smile on his thin, perfectly cut lips, his teeth gleaming as white as his polished shirt front, his Tuxedo fitting his trim figure with exquisite precision.

Ralph swung Billy to the opposite end of the room, dancing there in a small area for several minutes while he talked of a dozen inconsequential things. When the music stopped, Billy excused herself to Ralph and hurried away, as if bent on some important mission, but she had only one need—to see Dal and to speak with him alone. She was so shaken with emotion that she wondered how she could walk steadily, and she felt that her eyes were burning with such a light that anyone glancing at her would be blinded by it.

The music started again while she was still hunting for him. Bruce Kruger swept her into a dance, but she scarcely knew whose arms were around her. She was glad of their support, however, when she came abruptly upon Dal Romaine, dancing with Nyda Lomax. Nyda, who was as tall as Dal, in her three-inch heels, was dancing far closer than good taste permitted, her face almost touching the man's dark cheek.

"Let's dance over to the balcony, Bruce," Billy pleaded.

"Feeling faint, old dear?" Bruce asked solicitousy, when they reached the open window by the bacony. "Wait here, Billy. I'll get you a glass of iced punch. Don't revive and whirl away with some other chap while I'm gone."

"I'll wait for you on the balcony," she told him stepping through the open French window as she did so.

She was feeling faint, she realized with surprise and self-pity, as she stretched out in a big wicker chair drawn up to the stone balustrade of the balcony. The cool spring breeze laden with the sweet, fresh scent of new-cut grass on the billowing golf course that lay below the club building, revived her.

How foolish she was to be nauseated with jealousy, just because Dal Romaine danced with Nyda Lomax! What if he did look at Nyda as if he adored her? Dal could not help paying whimsical, knightly deference to women. He had teased her often about her jealousy, though she had never stooped to the ignominy of putting that jealousy into words. Of course he flirted!

As she reasoned with herself, her eyes brooded upon the moonlit scene below her. A couple, walking arm in arm, crossed the field of her vision. With a tightening of her whole body, she realized that it was Dal and Nyda, their heads bent so close that Dal's breath must be playing upon Nyda's cheek. Before she could realize the pain that the sight caused her, a man leaped from the shadows of a high box hedge, and hurled himself upon Romaine. She had time to note that the attacker wore the semi-military coat and glistening Cordovan puttees of a chauffeur before her recognition of him was confirmed by Nyda's shrill scream:

Eddie! Eddie, for God's sake—"

Billy's instinct was to throw herself over the balustrade of the balcony, regardless of possible injury to herself, and rush to the defense of the man she loved. But her defense was not needed. Before she could move or cry out, Romaine, as if by magic, since he was at least thirty pounds lighter than the chauffeur, had thrown his attacker over his shoulder.

"Jiu jitsu, by golly!" Bruce Kruger's voice behind her exclaimed with sincere admiration, "Wonder where he learned that?"

Billy did not answer. Her eyes were strained toward the group below. Dal stood over the fallen man, spoke to him, apparently, with quietness and without gestures. Banning flung a threatening arm about, but as Romaine talked, he grew quieter. Then Nyda stooped beside him, helping him to his feet. The chauffeur limped on down the driveway, after a minute or two of feeble threatening, the words of which Billy could not hear, and Nyda and Dal returned to the clubhouse.

A few minutes later Dal, with a smile of unruffled poise, "cut in" on Bruce Kruger, who was dancing with Billy. She was still pale with fright, but the conventionel contact of his arms in the dance made her crazily happy.

"I saw what happened—from the balcony," she whispered, as soon as they had swung away from Bruce. "Why did he do it, Dal?"

"Forget all about it, Mignon, my darling," his voice carressed her, but his eyes commanded her. "Banning will not bother me again. He put himself in my power tonight—and someone else, too," he added so softly that she hardly caught the strange, frightening words. But his lips closed in a thin, cruel line, and his narrowed eyes glinted in a way that made her shiver.

(To Be Continued)

Romaine apparently knows something about Nyda that he won't tell and Billy's efforts to get it out of him are in vain.

OIL NOTICE

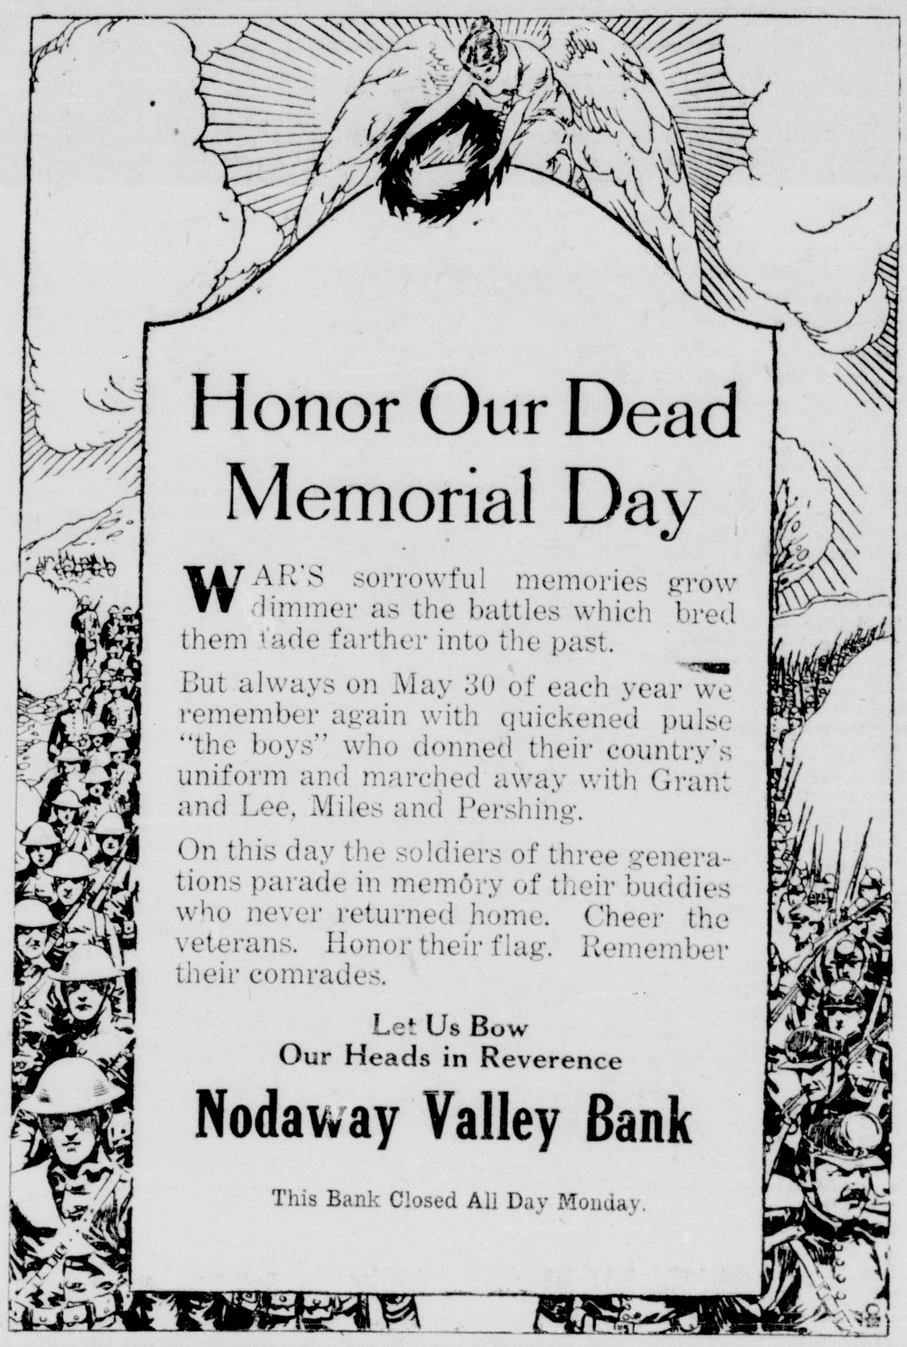
There will be a meeting of the stockholders of the Quitman Gas and Oil Company at the rig Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The well is at a stand-still for lack of funds to progress. The stock in the company is fully paid and non-assessable so that there can be no assessments to raise money for further drilling.

We have had four excellent showings of oil in this well. In fact Mr. Rose, our driller, says, "The best he has ever had since he started drilling wells in Missouri. Any one of these four sands are likely to produce a big well further up the structure and we have possibilities of going deeper and getting oil in this well.

Whether we drill a new well, go deeper in this one, or abandon the project must be decided immediately as Mr. Rose has another contract waiting, which he is willing and wants to turn down, if we want his services here.

These questions can only be decided by the stockholders and unless they are willing we will be forced to abandon the project at this time. Kindly attend this meeting and express your opinion and protect your own interest.

By order of board of directors. PRES., VAN GOSLEE.



Honor Our Dead
Memorial Day
WAR'S sorrowful memories grow dimmer as the battles which bred them fade farther into the past.
But always on May 30 of each year we remember again with quickened pulse "the boys" who donned their country's uniform and marched away with Grant and Lee, Miles and Pershing.
On this day the soldiers of three generations parade in memory of their buddies who never returned home. Cheer the veterans. Honor their flag. Remember their comrades.

HELP FOR SICK WOMEN

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Has Restored the Health of Thousands

Brooklyn, New York.—Mrs. G. Hegmann of 228 Schaeffer St., was in a run-down condition and could not do her housework. She could not sleep at night. Her story is not an unusual one. Thousands of women find themselves in a similar condition at some time in their lives. "I found your advertisement in my letter box," wrote Mrs. Hegmann, "and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got relief." Mrs. Hegmann also took Lydia E. Pinkham's Herb Medicine and Lydia E. Pinkham's Pills for Constipation, with good results. She says, "I am recommending your medicines to all I know who have symptoms the same as mine, and to others whom I think it will help. You may use my statement as a testimonial, and I will answer any letters sent to me by women who would like information regarding your medicines."

There are women in your state—perhaps in your town—who have written letters similar to this one telling how much Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped them.

The Pinkham Medicine Company, Lynn, Mass., will gladly furnish other women with these names upon request.

Closing Grain Review.

Chicago, May 27.—Wheat prices shot up between 3 and 4 cents on the Chicago board of trade today, under an avalanche of buying orders from all parts of the country, the deferred deliveries soaring to new high levels for the season. All news was decidedly bullish. Wheat closed 4⅜ to 4⅞ cents higher. The cash market was 1 cent higher.

Influenced by rains west and forecasts for more rain in the corn belt, extremely light offerings and the strength in wheat, corn prices soared 3 to 4 cents, with July and September selling at new highs. Reports were still bullish. The cash market was 1 to 2 cents higher. The futures closed 4⅞ to 5⅝ cents higher.

Oats participated in the advance with all deliveries advancing to new high prices. The cash market was ½ to 1 cent higher. Oats closed 1⅝ to 2⅜ cents higher.

Provisions were sharply higher.

Weather Favorable for Corn Planting

A Number Of Farmers Finish Getting Crop In, While Others Are Nearly Through.

The past week has been favorable for farm work in Nodaway County and as a result a number of farmers have finished planting their corn, while others have prepared the ground and will finish planting in a few days.

Walter Freytag, cashier of the Citizens Bank of Graham, said he thought 95 per cent of the corn had been planted in his community and that it was coming nicely.

The Democrat-Forum's correspondent at Pickering, O. G. Null, writes that about 75 per cent of the corn has been planted at this time in the Pickering community and probably the others will be through planting within the next few days. Mr. Null says:

"Corn is coming up nicely in many fields but there is some complaint of cut worms doing considerable damage and some fields will be replanted on account of their work."

Other sections of the county also are reporting that nearly all of the corn crop is planted.

According to press dispatches, very little corn has been planted in parts of Illinois and Iowa on account of the continued rains in these sections and predictions have been made that there will be a short crop this year.

Jesse Anderson a Suicide in Wyoming

Former Maryville Boy, Son Of Clearmont Couple, Shot Himself Tuesday.—Wife In Grant City.

Jesse ("Jack") Anderson, formerly of Maryville and a son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Anderson of Clearmont, committed suicide Tuesday afternoon at Torrington, Wyo., according to word received here today. He ended his life by shooting himself. His wife and son were visiting in Grant City with Mrs. Anderson's brother, Jay W. Barker, and when word of the tragedy was received they left at once in the Barker car for Torrington. His mother, Mrs. Anderson, left immediately for Torrington on receipt of the news from there.

According to the Grant City Times, it is supposed that Anderson was in financial difficulties and tired of carrying the load.

The Grant City Tribune had the following:

"Jack was born and raised in Worth County. He attended school in Grant City and graduated from the high school. The family moved from here to Maryville where Jack followed his trade as a printer. From there they moved to Torrington, where he entered the newspaper business, retiring about a year ago and entering the garage business. He had been active in Democratic politics in Wyoming while in the newspaper business and was prominent in all party activities. Report was that he had just bought a garage in Denver. While there last week he sent several messages to his wife to come ahead on her visit with relatives in Missouri. She and her son arrived at Blockton Saturday where Mr. Barker met them."

Miss Mildred Wygal, who for the past year has been employed at the Platte Valley Bank, has accepted a position with the Electric Light Co., at Maryville. Miss Mabel Wygal has taken the place at the Platte Valley Bank vacated by her sister.—Ravenwood Gazette.

Goodyear's Price Often Duplicated But Its Quality --NEVER!

Motorists are learning that there is a big difference in tires, although they look pretty much alike. Some are long on looks and short on quality and mileage. But you won't need a microscope to be sure that the Goodyear tire you get from us is a real buy. Goodyear mileage tells the story.

Today, more than ever, more people, the world over, ride on Goodyear tires than any other kind.

The COW the MOTHER of PROSPERITY

Your cows furnish something to sell when money is needed and money is always needed. Keep good cows and use a good cream separator to get all the butter fat from the milk. You can't afford to be without one and the best is the cheapest. There is none as well built nor as light running as the McCormick-Deering Primrose and it gets all the butter fat, leaving good skim milk to feed the hogs—and skim milk is a good substitute for high priced tankage.

Note these important advantages in the McCormick-Deering. It recovers the greatest amount of butter fat. It is easiest turning—ball bearing spindle. It has positive and automatic lubrication, insuring long life.

Every running part bathed in clean, fresh oil—all worn and dirty oil automatically drained out. Disc bowl with new features gets all the cream.

These separators can be bought on easy terms.
